

How to draw a sleepy baby owl

1

First draw a fat "U" shape that bends in at the top.

2

Connect the top with a curve that goes into the "U." This will give the baby owl some ears.

3

Draw two circles for the baby owl's eyes. Look at the drawing to see where to put them.

4

Two curved lines will make the baby owl look sleepy. Don't forget some straight lines for eyelashes.

5

Draw a small upside-down triangle for the beak.

6

Another short "U" will make the baby owl's tummy.

7

Add some round squished together "w"s to give the baby owl some feathers. Draw two more large "W"s to make the feet.

8

The baby owl also needs some wings. Draw two curved lines on either side of the baby owl's body.
