Meet Our New Deputy Director

Veronica De Fazio joined Peoria Public Library in May after longtime Deputy Director Roberta Koscielski retired.

Ms. De Fazio has more than 20 years of experience at medium and large libraries in Illinois and comes to Peoria from Plainfield Public Library, where she led Youth Services since 2010. Her experience also includes more than a decade at Des Plaines Public Library and several years of experience on the Illinois Library Association's Executive Board. She is currently the ILA's immediate past president.

"I feel lucky to be joining Peoria Public Library, knowing what it has to offer thanks to having family here. I've been impressed with what I've seen, and I'm very excited to become more connected to both the library and the community," said De Fazio. "My work with the Illinois Library Association involved a lot of outreach to libraries across the state, and I think those contacts and that knowledge can only help me in this new role."

In leading the ILA, the third largest state library association in the country, De Fazio was a key voice for Illinois libraries and the millions of people who depend on them. She is also active in the children's music community and hosts a blog, Kids Rhythm and Rock – kidsrhythmandrock.com – for librarians, teachers and parents.

We asked her a few fun questions so we can all get to know her better.

What made you decide to become a librarian? Growing up in a small town in Michigan, I was a very shy, introverted child. The staff at my public library always made me feel seen and respected. When I was trying to figure out what to do with my life, I realized that I wanted to make kids feel the way that those folks made me feel, so I became a librarian.

Do you have any special memories of your library growing up or of Summer Reading? My library was in an old JCPenney's building and the children's department was on the second floor. During the summer, they would write the names of all the children in the summer reading program on a giant flip pad of paper. During each visit to the library, after you told the librarian about your favorite book, they would add stickers after your name depending on how many books you read. At the end of the summer, you got a certificate. My Pac-Man certificate is still a prized possession!

Did you have a favorite book or book character growing up? Alanna from the Tortall series by Tamora Pierce.

We know you haven't been here long, but give us your first impression of Peoria. Peoria is a town with an incredibly rich history that has a wealth of arts and entertainment. I can't wait to delve into all the area has to offer.

If you could skip one part of your daily routine, what would it be and why? Cooking dinner. It's just so much work and is always over so fast.

What's your favorite way to spend a free weekend? When the weather is nice I enjoy spending time outside working in the garden or exploring new walking trails. When it's dreary outside, there's still nothing better than curling up with a good book!

What does your ideal library look like? My ideal library would be a bustling community space. A place for collaboration, study, music, storytimes, books, and classes for everything from lawnmower repair to basic computer skills. It would be a destination for those in the community and a reflection of the people that it serves.
